THE INVESTIGATIVE PROCESS

For alleged violations of the University Sexual and Gender-Based Harassment Policy
A person who experiences possible sexual or gender-based harassment may reach out to ODR to:

FILE A FORMAL COMPLAINT
A formal complaint may be filed by the person who experienced the harassment, the “Complainant,” or by a concerned third party, the “Reporter.” The person filing must write the complaint in their own words. The person against whom the allegations are made is called the “Respondent.”

INITIAL REVIEW
ODR speaks with the Complainant and/or Reporter in order to understand the allegations and any related conduct. At this point, the Complainant is informed of their rights and their local Title IX Resource Coordinator or designee will be considered the Complainant.

REQUEST INFORMATION
You may reach out to ODR to learn more about the University’s Policy and Procedures. This option is available whether or not you file a formal complaint. To learn more about resources, supportive measures, or other options, please reach out to your local Title IX Resource Coordinator or the Office for Gender Equity.

FILE A RESPONSE
Respondent files a Response, written in their own words, to ODR. ODR then provides a copy of the Response and any supporting materials filed with the complaint. A personal advisor may be, for example, a University officer, attorney, or advocate.

INTERVIEWS
ODR conducts separate interviews with each of the parties. If applicable, the parties may bring a Personal Advisor to their respective interviews with ODR. A personal advisor may be, for example, a University officer, attorney, or advocate.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION
ODR collects additional information (e.g., interview witnesses, collect documents, conduct site visits). The parties may submit additional materials they believe may be relevant. Copies of these materials will be given to the other party and, at that party’s discretion, their personal advisor (if applicable).

FOLLOW-UP INTERVIEWS
ODR conducts follow-up interviews with the parties separately. These interviews give each party an opportunity to respond to all information ODR may use in reaching its conclusions.

NOTIFY RESPONDENT
ODR notifies the Respondent of their rights. Respondent may be assessed at any time during the investigative process, including after a disciplinary decision is made. For more information on supportive measures, please contact your local Title IX Resource Coordinator.

REQUEST INFORMAL RESOLUTION
You may submit a request for informal resolution to the Director of ODR, your local Title IX Resource Coordinator, or the University Title IX Coordinator, who will determine whether an informal resolution may be appropriate.

UNWILLING COMPLAINANT
If the prospective Complainant is unwilling to participate or wants to withdraw their complaint, but the School or Unit has determined the severity of the harassment and the potential risk to others warrants an investigation, the Title IX Resource Coordinator or designee will be considered the Complainant.

NOTIFY COMPLAINANT
ODR notifies the Complainant or Reporter and the appropriate School or Unit of the plan to investigate. If there is a police investigation into the same allegations, ODR will assess the timing of its investigation, so as not to compromise the criminal investigation.

REQUEST INFORMAL RESOLUTION
You may submit a request for informal resolution to the Director of ODR, your local Title IX Resource Coordinator, or the University Title IX Coordinator, who will determine whether an informal resolution may be appropriate.

FILE A FORMAL COMPLAINT
A formal complaint may be filed by the person who experienced the harassment, the “Complainant,” or by a concerned third party, the “Reporter.” The person filing must write the complaint in their own words. The person against whom the allegations are made is called the “Respondent.”

INITIAL REVIEW
ODR speaks with the Complainant and/or Reporter in order to understand the allegations and any related conduct. At this point, the Complainant is informed of their rights and their local Title IX Resource Coordinator or designee will be considered the Complainant.

REQUEST INFORMATION
You may reach out to ODR to learn more about the University’s Policy and Procedures. This option is available whether or not you file a formal complaint. To learn more about resources, supportive measures, or other options, please reach out to your local Title IX Resource Coordinator or the Office for Gender Equity.

FILE A RESPONSE
Respondent files a Response, written in their own words, to ODR. ODR then provides a copy of the Response and any supporting materials filed with the complaint. A personal advisor may be, for example, a University officer, attorney, or advocate.

INTERVIEWS
ODR conducts separate interviews with each of the parties. If applicable, the parties may bring a Personal Advisor to their respective interviews with ODR. A personal advisor may be, for example, a University officer, attorney, or advocate.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION
ODR collects additional information (e.g., interview witnesses, collect documents, conduct site visits). The parties may submit additional materials they believe may be relevant. Copies of these materials will be given to the other party and, at that party’s discretion, their personal advisor (if applicable).

FOLLOW-UP INTERVIEWS
ODR conducts follow-up interviews with the parties separately. These interviews give each party an opportunity to respond to all information ODR may use in reaching its conclusions.

NOTIFY RESPONDENT
ODR informs Respondent of their rights. Respondent may be assessed at any time during the investigative process, including after a disciplinary decision is made. For more information on supportive measures, please contact your local Title IX Resource Coordinator.

REQUEST INFORMAL RESOLUTION
You may submit a request for informal resolution to the Director of ODR, your local Title IX Resource Coordinator, or the University Title IX Coordinator, who will determine whether an informal resolution may be appropriate.

UNWILLING COMPLAINANT
If the prospective Complainant is unwilling to participate or wants to withdraw their complaint, but the School or Unit has determined the severity of the harassment and the potential risk to others warrants an investigation, the Title IX Resource Coordinator or designee will be considered the Complainant.

REQUEST INFORMAL RESOLUTION
You may submit a request for informal resolution to the Director of ODR, your local Title IX Resource Coordinator, or the University Title IX Coordinator, who will determine whether an informal resolution may be appropriate.

The Harvard Law School (HLS) Sexual Harassment Resources and Procedures for Students will apply only when both the complainant and the respondent are HLS students. Otherwise, the University Procedures will apply.

The investigation may be completed ordinarily within six weeks of receipt of the complaint. There may be circumstances requiring longer timeframes, for example, in the interest of the integrity and completeness of the investigation, to accommodate party or witness availability, to comply with requests by or not to prejudice investigations or processes of external law enforcement, or for other legitimate reasons, including the complexity of the investigation and the severity or extent of alleged misconduct. Please note that the investigator may impose reasonable timeframes on the parties to ensure a prompt and equitable investigation. ODR will keep the parties informed of the progress of the investigation.

Supportive measures, formerly referred to as interim measures, may be assessed at any time during the investigative process, including after a disciplinary decision is made. For more information on supportive measures, please contact your local Title IX Resource Coordinator.

For a complete description of the process, please refer to the University Sexual and Gender-based Harassment Policy and related Procedures.

Sanctions: ODR does not issue sanctions. It is the Respondent’s School or unit that considers the Final Report and decides discipline as appropriate.